Figure S8. Difference between expected and observed recombination fraction between markers flanking R2d2 in experimental crosses in which at least one parent is segregating for a high-copy allele of R2d2. Thick and thin vertical bars show 90% and 95% confidence bounds, respectively, obtained by non-parametric bootstrap.